2012-2013 Brings Variety of Administrative Changes at AIS

Some years, things remain relatively unchanged. Some years, things change. While the well-known positions such as superintendent and principal will remain unchanged, the latter applies this year at Augusta Independent, as there are a variety of familiar faces serving in new administrative positions.

After several years of serving AIS as the Director of District Services, Robert Hall has retired. Replacing Mr. Hall is Barry Caskey. Mr. Caskey has been the Guidance Counselor at Augusta Independent for the last nine years. His duties include serving as transportation director, facilities director, and maintaining the district website. Replacing Mr. Caskey as Guidance Counselor will be Mr. Chad Bryant. He completed his Master's Degree in Counseling from Morehead State University in May. Mr. Bryant has taught middle school and high school social studies at AIS for the past 5 years.

After more than a decade of serving as Athletic Director, Robin Kelsch has decided to give up the position to allow more focus on his duties as principal. His replacement will be Coach Rebecca Arnold. Coach Arnold has been the girls' basketball coach for the Lady Panthers for the last 5 years. She has also been very involved in all aspects of the athletic department. In addition to her coaching duties, Coach Arnold teaches Health and Physical Education. She will continue both her roles as teacher and coach.

Finally, Ms. Rebecca Proffitt will be transitioning from the position of District Technology Coordinator to Director of Vocational Studies. As Director of Vocational Studies, a position Ms. Proffitt held two years ago, she will focus on preparing students to be college and career ready, an important mandate of Senate Bill 1 and the new learning standards. Ms. Proffitt will continue teaching her technology classes. Replacing Ms. Proffitt as District Technology Coordinator/Chief Information Officer will be Mr. Tim Litteral. He completed his Master's Degree in Educational Technology from Morehead State University in May. Mr. Litteral has taught middle school and high school English at AIS for four years and will continue to do so in his new position.

To contact the Director of District Services, individuals can call the Board Office at 756-2545. Those needing to speak with the Guidance Counselor, Athletic Director, Vocational Director, or District Technology Coordinator can phone the school at 756-2105.

Car Wash at AHS this Sat., July 21

The Augusta High School Class of 2013 will be having a car wash on Saturday, July 21, from noon to 3 p.m. in the Augusta School Parking Lot. The car wash is free, but donations will be graciously accepted. In addition to the car wash, the class will be selling Augusta Panther spirit items, including seat cushions, cups, and wristbands. All proceeds will go towards the students' Senior Trip this April.

A Legislative Perspective on the Kentucky
General Assembly
State Rep. Mike Denham

Like the rest of the nation, Kentucky is seeing a definite graying trend as more and more Baby Boomers move past their 65th birthday and a growing number of citizens reach their nineties and beyond.

There are about 600,000 Kentuckians who fit in this broad age group. For perspective, that's about four-fifths the size of Jefferson County, and it is about to get much larger. Census figures indicate this population will see a nearly 30 percent bump this decade across the state and another 27 percent in the 2020s. The numbers in some communities will nearly double during this time.

There are opportunities and challenges alike arising from this change. We rank 10th among the states in the percentage of citizens 65 to 74, for example, which is a key demographic because of their collective wealth and volunteerism. On the down side, issues tied to poverty remain stubbornly high for our elderly, and we are among the leading states in the growth of grandparents providing primary care of their grandchildren.

Another growing trend, unfortunately, is the fact that far too many of our older citizens are being abused, ignored or taken advantage of. A recent report by the Kentucky Elder Abuse Committee found that the number of substantiated cases of self-neglect, neglect by caretaker and exploitation has skyrocketed since 2007.

A congressional report last year, meanwhile, estimated that 14 percent of older Americans have been abused, but this is widely believed to be low, with many cases undoubtedly going unreported.

As our senior population increases, the number of those suffering from Alzheimer's is rising as well. There were about 74,000 Kentuckians who fell in this category in 2000, but that's expected to rise to 97,000 by 2025.

In addition to the medical costs associated with treatment, there is a tremendous amount of free care being provided as well by family and friends. The Alzheimer's Association said more than 264,000 people fall in this support group, and last year their care was estimated at $3.65 billion. That's $1.4 billion more than in 2009.

In an effort to help our older citizens as much as possible, the General Assembly looks for ways to improve state services each legislative session.

Even in the face of budget cuts, the legislature supported adding $31 million more this year and next to the Department of Community Based Services, which is enabling that agency to hire 300 additional front-line social workers to investigate claims of abuse and neglect, no matter the age.

The budget also sets aside $5 million more annually to increase programs like Meals on Wheels, and we provide about $1.7 million to establish an adult-abuse registry to help businesses involved in elder care be assured that their employees have not been convicted of crimes against the elderly.

Other new laws taking effect this year will do such things as improve the way the state responds to strokes; establish a pilot program to improve oral care at nursing homes; and ensure that anyone admitted to a personal care home is assessed beforehand by a qualified mental health professional. There are about 3,000 men and women who currently live in these settings, and the need to know more about the care they may require is crucial.

In past years the General Assembly created Golden Alerts – similar to alerts used to find missing children, except they are targeted at older citizens – and we cracked down on those convicted of elder abuse, to better ensure they do not benefit from those they abused or neglected.

These are just a few of the initiatives that have been enacted, but no one expects them to be the last. As new challenges arise, the legislature will look for ways to overcome them.

If you are aware of any abuse, please don't hesitate to contact the state's abuse hotline at 1-800-752-6200. If you would like to know more about any senior programs being offered, meanwhile, please contact the Department for Aging and Independent Living at (502) 564-6930.

And if you would like to contact me about this issue or any other affecting the state, I can always be reached by writing to Room 329G, Capitol Annex, 702 Capitol Avenue, Frankfort, KY 40601.

You can also leave a message for me or for any legislator at 800-372-7181.

For the deaf or hard of hearing, the number is 800-896-0305.

I hope to hear from you soon.

Two Minutes WITH THE BIBLE

MILES AND MILES OF SCRIPTURE by Cornelius R. Stam

How much, I wonder, do the Christian parents among our readers show their children their love for the Word, and for Christ, and for the souls for whom He died?

For many years I worked with my father, first full-time, then part-time, as a city missionary in Paterson, N.J. All during these first years dad and I walked to work together each morning -- a little over a mile.

Do you know how we invariably occupied ourselves on the way? By quoting Scripture passages on some particular subject. One morning we would quote as many passages as we could on the deity of Christ, another on His death or resurrection; others on His love, power, grace, or other attributes and characteristics. Sometimes, for days or weeks on end dad would use these morning walks to ply me with questions such as: "What Scriptures would you use to deal with a blaspheming unbeliever?" or "a self-righteous person" or "one who rejects Christ on intellectual grounds?"

In this way we covered "miles and miles" of Scripture, as it were, and this in addition to Scripture reading before every meal at home, and again before we retired for the night. And all this again in addition to the oral and written Bible teaching of many of the great Bible expositors of that day, whose teachings we studied with deepest interest.

What a precious heritage! We wish that more of our Christian young people today were as well off. Parents: it's strictly up to you. What are your priorities? What are you willing to pay -- in terms of pleasure, ease or financial "success"? Do you set an example to your children -- and others -- by really putting God first?

Greetings from the church mouse. As we gather together in our various churches Sunday morning, may we lift our voices in joyous praise to our Lord. May we pause a moment and reflect on the fact that we are entering into God's presence...together.

On this Sun., July 15 we had 55 to SS & 104 to worship service. All are welcome to Chatham. SS is 10 a.m., worship service is 10:45 a.m., Bible Study is 6 p.m. each Sunday evening.

Remember in prayer: Ron Foley (kidney stones & diverticulitis), Gary Cummins, Ruby Silvey, Ruth Nickerson's nephews (her 42 yr. old nephew had 5 heart bypasses and the other one has surgery on his eyes this week for a bleed), Terry Hall, Mary Hamilton (kidney surgery), Shawna McKenney. Always remember all those on the prayer list and always each other.

Sympathy goes out to the family of Delmar Sharp and Jackie Hall. May God bless each of you and grant you peace and comfort.

John Cooper blessed us by singing "Amazing Grace".

Nancy Tompkins and Shirley Young played "Jesus Loves Me" & "It Is Well With My Soul" for communion and "I Love Him Because He First Loved Me" and "Love Lifted Me" for offertory.

As Bro. Jackie and his family were on vacation, Bro. Ron Foley was to bring a message, but he became ill while on vacation, so Sharon Lucas, our Bible Study leader, spoke on "Why do bad things happen to good people?" We all go through trials and temptations. God is always there for us to lean on.

There were 17 to Bible Study. Next week we will start in Matthew. Refreshments were served following our study.

Sun., July 22 - There will be a breakfast at church prior to SS. So come hungry and eat a delicious meal of biscuits, sausage and the works!

A special hello from the church mouse to Albert & Sandy Blevins. On July 15 they celebrated their 45th wedding anniversary.

We all have a little light to shine, so let's make the world a brighter place and shine for Jesus.

We invite all to come and worship with our family of believers. Sunday services begin with Sunday School at 10 a.m., morning worship at 11 a.m. and Sunday night services are held at 7 p.m. message by Brother Dan Black.

This past Sunday Brother Dan's message was taken from Matthew 13:20-23 and titled: "Am I truly doing what the Lord asks of me?" It's easy to be a Christian inside the doors of the church, but outside is much harder. It's imperative that we as Christians commit ourselves to Christ instead of only going through the motions.

SonRise National Park VBS underway at Augusta Presbyterian

Each evening as the children gathered for the SonRise National Park Vacation Bible School at the Augusta Presbyterian Church they paused for prayer before heading out to story time, crafts, music, and snack. On Monday evening, July 16th, 28 children gathered to learn about the works of Jesus. Throughout the week they heard how he helped his friends and how he would help us too in "Peace, Be Still", as Jesus calmed the storm, about the "Miraculous Meal" as he fed the 5,000 with two fishes and 5 loaves of bread, the temptation of Jesus in the wilderness in "It is Written", and Jesus as "The Good Shepherd" as he showed how much he loved us by dying on the cross.

GREETINGS FROM ST. JAMES by Caroline Jefferson

This Friday evening, July 20, Fr. Ian McDole will celebrate a 7 PM Mass at St. James. Fr. McDole was not able to get this announcement in the bulletin this past Sunday, so please mark this time on your calendar and take the opportunity to worship and pray for our needs and those of this country! As our Blessed Mother told the children at Fatima in 1917, many prayers are needed to convert the world and save it from the wrath of God.

St. James Annual Ice Cream Social is this weekend and we invite those of you who are visiting the Augusta Riverfest Regatta this weekend to travel south for a few short miles to enjoy a taste of some southern delicacies! Saturday's Pig Roast will be held after the 5 p.m. Mass and run until 8 p.m. The Ice Cream Social will be held from Noon until 6 p.m. and it sounds like the weather will be just right to enjoy cold ice cream on a hot (but not so humid) day!

PRESBYTERIAN POTPOURRI

by Les Grooms, pastor
Augusta Presbyterian

Sunday was a spirit filled day in the life of our church. Fifty-four were present for worship. Millie Bush was the worship leader. Susie Hargett led the singing. Shelby England had children's church. Jill White did the power point.

Mackenzie was baptized in the community swimming pool immediately after church. Many of our congregation were present.

We had our first day of Vacation Bible School on Sunday night. We had 23 children present and many volunteers to help with everything. This is the first time that we have had V.B.S. without other churches joining in with us. We were fortunate to have enough volunteers.

Old Time Camp meeting starts this week at Ruggles Camp Ground. We have been attending for many years and this time we will be staying on the camp ground for much of the time. Camp meeting is not what it used to be but still many come for the full time to enjoy the fellowship and worship.

In our adult Sunday School class we will be starting the study of Acts on the first Sunday of August.

We had an anonymous gift of $100 given to us to help defray the costs of V.B.S.

With Heartfelt Thanks

from the Family of

Raymond Whitehead

The Whitehead family would like to thank anyone who helped in any way after his death and during his funeral. We would like to thank all of those who brought food, those who gave Gideon Bibles, those who donated to the Church of the Nazarene, those who gave flowers and memorials, those who sent cards and made calls. We would especially like to thank Moore & Parker Funeral Home for their efficient service, Rev. Denver Prater and Rev. Norman Potter for their beautiful and timely words, Homer Burton and Charity Wood for their beautiful songs, Rev. Steve Wheeler who ran sound, the pall bearers and honorary pall bearers, and the ladies of the church for the delicious dinner. Most of all, thank you for the prayers, as we couldn't have gotten through this without them.

God Bless Each One of You!

Bracken County Cancer Support serving the county since February

Our Bracken County Cancer Support (BCCS) group has been active for six months. Since being organized in February 2012, the group has assisted 19 different individuals that have been diagnosed with cancer. A total of $4,550 has been given to these individuals to assist them in transportation costs as they go through treatments and/or surgery for cancer. BCCS serves Bracken County residents only. We started in February by assisting 6 individuals and in the months since then we have helped as many as 12 per month.

In order to receive assistance, a pathology report, a treatment plan from the doctor and the individual's address must be received by BCCS. In return, the group will mail a gas card each month as long as the individual is receiving treatments.

How does BCCS get this money, you might ask? Our biggest donor so far has been Bracken County High School FBLA. This club sponsored "Shoot for a Cure" which consisted of several activities to raise money, the largest being a basketball game held in December between Augusta and Bracken County High School. Bracken County Cancer Support could not have been organized without the help of FBLA. BCCS has also received donations from several individuals, churches, clubs and businesses throughout the county. Memorials have been given in BCCS's name. A Quarter Auction was held with an unbelievable attendance in May and BCCS is planning to sell refreshments on August 4th at an upcoming auction.

There are 16 current members of BCCS but new members are always welcome. Our next meeting will be September 11 at 6:30 p.m. at the Brooksville Christian Church Fellowship Hall, and anyone may attend.

If you know someone in Bracken County that has been diagnosed with cancer and is currently or will be undergoing treatments, give them this article or tell them about BCCS. If you would like a brochure or more information about BCCS, call Karin Poe at 606-782-5173, Janice Hiles at 606-782-0343 or fax 606-735-3103. Our address is PO Box 417, Brooksville, KY 41004. You can e-mail the group at bccs4u@yahoo.com or check us out on the web at www.BrackenCountyCancerSupport.webs.com.

The Bracken County Cancer Support appreciates the community for seeing the need to support our group. Without your generous donations we could not help those who are fighting the terrible disease "CANCER".

WOMEN OF WILLOW BAPTIST

The Women of Willow Baptist Church met at deSha's, Maysville, for their July meeting. Pres. Karen Wright welcomed the ladies to the meeting and surprise baby shower for Joanna Tillman. Evelyn Cooper presented an interesting program about intercessory prayer. Being consistent, specific, and personal when praying lets God know we are sincere and concerned about the needs of others. Alice Mills closed with prayer remembering missionaries on the field.

Pres. Wright read the watch word for 2012, Hebrews 12:1-2. Each committee gave a glowing report of outreach and blessings during the months of April, May, June & July. Joanna praised the volunteers for helping make VBS a success. She also was pleased the book study had gone so well. The church exceeded the goal set for the Annie Armstrong Easter Offering! The group decided to support the Sun Rise Children's Home with a donation to help purchase school supplies. With state missions soon approaching, a goal of $500 was set.

After the business meeting, Joanna opened darling baby girl gifts for the soon expected arrival! Attending were: Alice Mills, Virginia Bowles, Carol Klaber, Eunice Brooks, Tina Wolfe, Martha Peddicord, Karen Wright, Evelyn Cooper, Joanna Tillman, guests Fannie Lou Hedgecock, Susie Perkins, and Krista Scheid.

Howdy Folks! Just a couple of more ninety plus days of heat and humidity and the good Lord willing, we will be in for a little rain and somewhat cooler temperatures and humidity! Of course, this is Kentucky in July and we here in Bracken County are pretty accustomed to the weather – not saying we like it, we just know what it is! These are repeating what you hear every day, but please take precautions in this heat knowing that in just five short months, we will be hustling and bustling about, getting everything ready for Christmas!

Back on March 10 The Ledger Independent Newspaper from Maysville featured the History, origins and towns of Bracken County in the Life section of the paper. We were surprised to read the names of several small towns that did not survive over the years due to lack of good roads which made it impossible to 'get there from here' and others that succumbed to flooding. Santa Fe, Rock Springs, Wellsburg, Willow (Grove), Bladeston, Bridgetown, Stonewall, Cumminsville, and Gertrude were familiar names, but South Higginsport, Stoney Point, Tietzville, Browningsville and Mount Hor were maybe a little before our time or maybe they existed, but being kids, we really didn't pay that much attention. To us, these areas will always be known for their small town name, but the stores or stations that made them a part of history have disappeared forever.

Those small towns that still are familiar to folks today, but lack the corner grocery to draw a crowd are Bradford, Chatham, Johnsville, Milford, Neave, Petra, and Walcott. Small towns still clinging to life with at least one business to care for the needs of those in the surrounding area are Berlin, Foster, Germantown, Lenoxburg, Needmore, Powersville and Oakland, but with the closing of Jacobs' Store in Oakland, it too will dissolve into just another 'bump in the road'! Marla Toncray's Ledger article was very interesting but sad at the same time because we remember as many of you do these locations as being model communities. Houses were well kept, yards mowed, flowers and vegetable gardens were everywhere and life was certainly much simpler!

How about a challenge to all the citizens of our small former towns, and current towns to once again become the neighborhoods that anyone would be proud to call home?! Bracken County is rich in history with many old homes that can become the focal point of an area. Residents and government have worked hard together to create Augusta as a city that ranks in the top ten of river towns across the United States! Brooksville, created as the County Seat in 1839, will soon have a new Justice Center to compliment the current Court House. This structure was built in 1915 as the sixth official site to house the government offices of Bracken County. Our country roads are beautiful and once we get rid of our litterbugs, will take us proudly home each and every day! Our many church communities have remained a constant throughout the entire county and it is the guidance of these churches that keep Bracken County rooted in the beliefs upon which this country was founded. While Bracken County does have ordinances to mandate order, cleanliness and safety, it would be much better if all citizens had the pride to keep their surroundings and environment in the best possible condition without the necessity of laws. Renew the beauty of Bracken County by accepting our challenge to RECYCLE, REUSE and REDUCE to keep God's earth clean, green and beautiful! Be seen' you – Bin & Bug.

Bracken County FBLA attends Leadership Development Camp

From June 6-8, 2012, Bracken County officers of the Future Business Leaders of America were off to Hardinsburg, Kentucky to develop qualities that will help them not only as officers, but also as a chapter. These great officers took off their business suits and put on their camping gear as they traveled to the FFA Leadership Development Training Center. The officers enjoyed meeting new people, recreational activities, and officer classes.

During the camp stay, the FBLA members participated in a variety of activities ranging from officer preparation classes and workshops to dances and recreational athletics centered around the theme “Dancing with the Stars.” Mrs. Carrie Jefferson and Mrs. Tracy Florer were the camp directors for the third year. Alyson Crawford, State Historian and Diane Poe, Region 5 President were also an integral part of all phases of the camp experience.

Savannah Simons won the outstanding officer award for the President’s class and her team won the dance off for the most creative dance for the FBLA song. Karly Jefferson took home the coveted yellow mug for her team winning the recreational activities.

Girl Scouts Kicking Off Fall With “Free” Family Festival

Girl Scouts of Kentucky’s Wilderness Road Council will kick off fall, as they host their sixth annual “Fun in the Sun” Festival on Saturday, August 25th at the Licking Valley Service Center in Erlanger, Kentucky. The festival is a family-friendly, FREE community event; however, the Girl Scouts are asking attendees to bring canned good donations to benefit Freestore Foodbank.

Festivities will begin at 1:00 p.m. and will run until 4:00 p.m.; Lazy River band, games, crafts, bounce houses, dunking booth, petting zoo, horseback riding, canoeing, game booths, Kona ice, Circus Mojo performances, food and many more festival activities will be provided to “Fun in the Sun” Festival attendees. Parking will be available at Lloyd Memorial High School and a “Scout Shuttle” will be on hand for anyone unable to make the walk down Watson Road to the Girl Scout property.

“This event is made possible with the help of countless volunteers, donors and staff”, says Ruby Webster, Center Director, “including troop leaders, girls, NKU students and several other community-minded individuals and organizations. The free festival will not only be a fun time for families and members of the community, but it is a great opportunity to learn more about Girl Scouting and why it is the MUST HAVE leadership development experience for every girl!”

If you need more information or would like to volunteer to make a positive difference in the life of a girl, please contact Ruby Webster, Center Director, at rwebster@gswrc.org or call 859-342-6263.

Heading Back to School with Diabetes

By the National Diabetes Education Program

Diabetes is one of the most common chronic diseases in children. For students with diabetes and their parents, getting ready for a new school year includes a lot more than buying new clothes, backpacks, notebooks, and pens. It means buying a whole list of diabetes supplies to keep at school—but also preparing school staff to help keep their children safe at school and school-sponsored activities.

“Nobody knows your child’s day-to-day needs and how to respond to a diabetes emergency better than you,” said Griffin P. Rodgers, M.D., Director of the National Institute of Diabetes and Digestive and Kidney Diseases of the National Institutes of Health (NIH). “That’s why it is so important to start the school year as part of the school health team, and to keep open the lines of communication throughout the school year.”

Both parents and school personnel can get the guidance they need from an invaluable manual, Helping the Student with Diabetes Succeed: A Guide for School Personnel. This guide was produced by the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services’ National Diabetes Education Program (NDEP) and is an essential resource for parents, schools, and health care professionals.

As the school year begins, parents of youth with diabetes are encouraged to follow these tips from the NDEP School Guide to help ensure their children’s safety and well-being.

- Take action. Notify the school right away that your child has diabetes. Allow the sharing of medical information to keep your child safe and provide up-to-date emergency contact numbers to the school.

- Work with your child’s health care team to develop a “Diabetes Medical Management Plan.” This plan contains the medical orders for your child. It should be signed by the health care team and submitted to the school nurse at the start of each school year. An updated plan is needed if there are changes in your child’s diabetes care plan during the year. A sample plan is included in the NDEP School Guide.

- Meet with the school nurse to go over your child’s school health care plans. The school nurse will use the medical orders to prepare your child’s routine and emergency diabetes care plans at school. You can find samples of these plans in the School Guide.

- Provide the school with all supplies, medicines, and items needed to carry out your child’s health care and emergency plans. This includes blood glucose testing items, supplies for taking insulin and urine and blood ketone testing, snacks, quick-acting glucose products, and a glucagon kit.

- Be an active member of the school health team. The School Guide includes action plans for all school personnel, and for you and your child to work together to manage diabetes care at school. Go over these checklists with your child so both of you can work as a team with school staff throughout the school year.

SOCIAL SECURITY GOES FOR THE GOLD by Michael W. Grochowski Social Security Regional Commissioner in Atlanta

Millions of Americans are following the 2012 Summer Olympic Games in London.

The last time swimmer Michael Phelps competed, he brought home more gold medals at one time than anyone in the history of the Olympics. Will he do it again?

If there was an Olympics for customer services available online, the services at www.socialsecurity.gov would be the Michael Phelps of that competition. Over the years, Social Security's online services have been rated the best in government and the best in all industries.

When it comes to independent customer satisfaction scores, Social Security's online services consistently bring home the gold, silver, and bronze. The American Customer Satisfaction Index (ACSI) tracks customer satisfaction and rates websites for their performance.

Out of all online services provided by 101 federal agencies in the running, Social Security took all of the top three spots again in the latest survey.

In third place, the application for Extra Help with Medicare Part D prescription drug costs is rated 89. Bringing home the silver, in second place, the Retirement Estimator scored a 91. And the top-rated online service in government is the online application for Social Security benefits, with a satisfaction score of 92!

It's worth noting that even our newest online service is already scoring high praise. Since being launched in May, the online Social Security Statement is rated 88, giving this new service one of the highest ratings in government.

Whether you want to plan for or apply for your retirement, look into other benefits available, or learn about the history of the program, you can do it all at Social Security's website. When you're taking a break from the Summer Olympics, visit the Olympian of online services at www.socialsecurity.gov.

Considerations for harvesting drought-stressed corn

By: Donna Amaral-Phillips,
Jeff Lehmkuhler, and Chad Lee
Submitted by: David Appelman,
CEA for ANR

Remember to consider:

1. If corn is going to be fed as green chop, grazed, or as hay, test for nitrates before harvest to be sure the crop will be safe to feed. For corn harvested properly as silage or baleage and which goes through a good fermentation, nitrate levels could decrease 30 to 50% and can be tested after fermentation and before being fed. If you need to decide which corn fields to harvest as silage or hay, testing before harvesting will allow one to determine which fields need to be harvested as silage (those higher in nitrates) and those with safe levels of nitrates which can be harvested as corn hay. For sorghums and sorghum-sudangrasses, nitrates should be tested before harvest to be safe for your harvest method.

2. Check herbicide withdrawals to make sure the crop can be fed to livestock.

3. Raise the cut high—nitrates are highest in the plant stem closer to the ground. This may be more difficult if using a disc mower or other hay equipment for the purpose of making hay or baleage.

4. If at all possible, harvest as silage and let ferment for 4-6 weeks before feeding. You may want to consider using a silage inoculant. Again, test for nitrates before feeding.

5. Immature corn will be more variable in nutrient content than “normal corn silage”. After harvest, test the forage for its nutrient content and develop and feed a balanced ration to your cattle.

6. Watch the moisture content of the crop closely. A small amount can be chopped to determine the current moisture content. Corn is drying down quickly in parts of KY. You will need to use a Koster tester or microwave to determine the actual moisture content. Silage and baleage need to be correct moisture to ferment properly and make good feed.

7. Can you add enough water at the bagger or silo blower to increase the moisture content of the silage? For each 1% increase in moisture content, approximately 7 gallons of water is needed per ton. A typical garden hose delivers approximately 8-10 gallons per minute. Thus, it is nearly impossible to deliver enough water to make a difference. For example, to increase the moisture content from 45% moisture (55% dry matter) to 60% moisture (40% dry matter) for a wagon load of silage (4 ton capacity), you need to add 420 gallons of water-- Not feasible!!

Can you make baleage out of corn? Yes-- but moisture and other harvesting techniques are important.

1. Moisture content needs to be between 45 to 60%. Getting the crop at the moisture content can be very challenging.

2. Material needs to be crimped and/or conditioned before baling. Conditioning is a must to get the crop to ferment. Using a rotary mower (i.e. bushhog) may also work but make sure the blades are sharp to reduce shredding of the corn plant. If your baler has knives, they can be used to chop the corn plant.

3. Newer balers work the best. This is a very coarse crop that is tough on hay equipment and some older style balers may have difficulty handling the crop.

4. Inoculate can be added at the baler, if you are equipped to handle this.

5. Wrap with at least 2 extra layers of plastic for a total of 7 layers of plastic due to corn stalks puncturing the plastic.

6. Net wrap may work better than string tie balers. If you use a string tie baler, additional wraps of string should be used.

Can you make hay out of the crop? YES--- BUT

1. Nitrates will not decrease from the standing crop. The crop needs to undergo normal fermentation to decrease the level of nitrates. Hay does not ferment!!! If they are high in the standing crop, they will not decrease with harvest and storage.

2. Moisture needs to be about 15%. If the crop is harvested with over 18% moisture, it will heat and make a very poor feed. It can spontaneously combust if too wet and goes through a heat.

3. Corn stalks can be very variable in nutrient content (protein and energy) and may require supplementation depending on the cattle being fed.

Hamilton, Fields play in East -vs- West Northeastern Kentucky Senior Bowl

Planning for retirement

Retirement planning is important for all individuals; however, it is especially important for women. At some point during their lives, 80 to 90 percent of women will be solely responsible for their own finances. Unfortunately for the majority of them, it will be later in life. Women tend to have shorter work histories than men, as a result of entering and leaving the workforce due to raising children. In addition, fewer women participate in employer-sponsored retirement plans compared to men.

One of the first things you should realize as you begin thinking about retirement is where you will get your money. You can think of retirement savings plan as a three-legged stool, with each of the legs being one source of retirement income.

The first leg is Social Security. For many women, Social Security is the main source of retirement income. Social Security eligibility is based on your lifetime earnings record and your age. This requires you to meet work requirements yourself or be married to someone for at least 10 years who meets the work requirements. Employed women who are married, widowed or divorced after at least 10 years of marriage are said to be dually entitled and can collect the higher amount between their own Social Security benefits or their spousal amount. You should understand that there are some ways your benefits can be reduced including if you earn income after you have retired and/or you are between the age of 62 and full retirement age when you start receiving benefits.

Full retirement age varies by the year you were born. For example, full retirement age for people born before 1937 is 65. For those born between the years 1943 and 1954, full retirement age increases to 66. To determine your retirement age, visit the Social Security Administration's website <http://www.ssa.gov/retire2/retirechart.htm>.

As a general rule, your Social Security benefits over your lifetime will be the same, whether you retire late or early. If you retire early, the monthly benefit amount is smaller to take into account that you will likely receive your benefits over a longer period of time. If you retire late, you will likely get benefits for a shorter amount of time, so your monthly benefits will be larger. Receiving Social Security early or late can each have advantages and disadvantages, and when you decide to retire, should be based on your current situation.

The second leg is employed-sponsored plans. This leg is often the one that is missing for many women. These plans include defined benefit plans, which guarantee a specific monthly amount, and defined contribution plans, which grow tax-deferred but do not guarantee specific retirement benefits. Most employers today are offering the defined contribution plans, including 401 (k), 403 (b), Section 457 plans, profit sharing, stock bonus plans and money purchase pension plans.

Unfortunately, the first two legs of the stool typically do not provide enough money to meet the needs of individuals during their retirement years. Most need the third leg which includes personal savings and investments. To find out how much additional income you'll need, you should contact your local Social Security office and ask for a Request for Earnings and Benefit Estimate Statement. If you have an employer-sponsored retirement plan, contact your human resource or benefits office to get a pension estimate. With this information, you can get a ballpark estimate of how much your retirement savings is estimated to be when you retire and how much additional income you'll need to comfortably retire. To get a more accurate estimate of how much money you'll need to retire, take into account the rate of inflation. The average annual rate of inflation from 1914 to 2010 has been 3.38 percent.

Making these calculations well in advance of your retirement, can give you enough time to save enough money. If you wait until you're about to retire, it may be too late to put any more money aside. Nate Jones and White Sox rock-solid at mid-season

by: Jack Wright

There are 162 games in a Major League Baseball regular season. On July the 4th, the Chicago White Sox played the 81st game (half-way point) of the season. It is good to report both the White Sox and rookie relief pitching sensation, Nate Jones, continue to perform exceptionally well half-way through the season.

Picked by the so-called experts to finish close to last place in the American League Central Division, the White Sox finished the half-way point with a record of 44 wins versus 37 losses and lead the division by two full games. The former Pendleton County High School and Northern Kentucky University star athlete, Nate Jones, has been a "first-half of the season" phenomenon.

At mid-season the six-foot-five-inch, two-hundred-ten-pound, right-handed-pitching, flame-throwing Jones leads the White Sox relief pitching staff corps in innings pitched (38) and strike outs (37). Jones' mid-season statistics include 32 game appearances, 38 innings pitched, 35 hits, 12 runs (earned), 3 home runs, 16 base on balls, 37 strike outs, 3 wins, 0 losses and an earned-run-average of 2.84.

With the Major League Baseball All-Star Game scheduled for Tuesday, July 10, and the subsequent so-called all-star break from end of day Sunday, July 8, through Wednesday, July 11, Jones was home for a few days.
